President's Message

Our journey towards "work wonders" is going on smoothly. We have covered Environment, Education, Health, Medical, women Empowerment, old age, orphanage, fellowship and community services. Let us continue our quest for friendship and service and make Innerwheel proud.

Thank you.

November a month of fun and frolic. Festivals celebrated and season of weddings and merry-making.

It is a very significant month for all Inner wheel sisters. On 15th November 27 Rotary Ann's led by Mrs Margarette Oliver Golding met at Turkish Baths St Mary's Street Deansgate Manchester and discussed the possibilities of the forming of an independent ladies group run on Rotary lines. The objectives would be to foster friendship and offer much more in the form of service.

The new club met for the first time on January 10th 1924 and it was discussed and decided to call it Inner Wheel Club of Manchester. As on June 2022 we have 4,115 clubs across 100 countries with 182 districts and 11,1245 members.

As a team let us continue to serve the people in need and enjoy the time spent in fellowship.

STREE SHAKTI

When children grow up and spread their wings,
We cherish the time together and little things,
Two cute boys with whom my day began and end
For each and everything on me they did depend,
Looking after their every day necessities,
Helping them with their school activities.
With blink of eye, Children have grown,
Successful, now leading their life
With their clever loving wife
Creating a Void, Nagging fear unknown
Am I not important to them anymore?
Was the question that made me very sore
Their loving wives showed me it is not true

They made me change my every view
Sharing with me all their lovely moments
My grandkids pranks and their talents
A bond with me and grandkids and son
My daughters in law are full of fun
When needed we are always there for each other
The Stree Shakti , binding our family together.

WHEN CHILDREN SPREAD THEIR WINGS

A time comes when your children no longer depend on you. The little ones who you tended and nursed so lovingly, who came home running to you narrating every anecdote of the day, whose every achievement made your heart swell with pride are no longer kids . They have spread their wings and have life of their own.

The day they finish their education and go out in the world and take up a job, you are happy, yes that is what you wanted them to be, a good and successful citizen. Then why is it that you feel a void, a vacuum in your heart, loneliness. To make matter worse the serials on T.V. focussed on selfish children who take parents for granted set you thinking. Will my children become like that. A small nagging fear arises, Do my children still care for me?. A phone call from them or a small message or a small gift sets your mind to rest. You realize your children will always be your children.

Then comes the day you select a bride for them, you are out bride hunting, horoscope matching. They say marriage is union of two families not just two people. You take care to select a girl from a family which you feel will adjust with yours. You mentally prepare yourself to welcome her lovingly into your family. You decide what you are going to do and not going to do depending on how you were when you entered into your in-laws house. Still once again the nagging fear, will the girl adjust with us? Will she take care of my son? Will she this, Will she that... the list goes on and on.

Now coming to myself, Yes, I felt all the things mentioned above. This time when my son went abroad I felt he was not only going far away from us physically. I felt he had drifted far away from us and his family. It took me quite some time to realize all this was just my imagination. Things were just the same only difference was now I also had a daughter who lovingly took care of my son, kept me informed of what was going on. I realized all my fear were unfounded. In fact I realized she was the bond between me and my son. Now I have no regrets.

A small poem about my feelings. I am sure most of us have gone through this.

When children spread their wings

Down the memory lane, this is my favorite subject.
My husband and my little ones are my poems object.
Whose homework I attended, Studies I dealt
Favorite dishes I prepared, their cries I did melt
Fancy dress, Quiz, debate, essay or exam
Whatever it was I was always with them.
Preparing them was fun my dear little ones.
My world revolved round my spouse and sons
The two sweet little boys who made lot of noise
Now settled in life with career of their choice
That's what I wanted then why this loneliness & void?
Why this nagging fear of being neglect, I can't avoid?

I miss the fun and their naughty sweet pranks
But to almighty creator I should certainly say thanks.
They still love us and are successful in life I can tell
One is married with loving wife, a daughter to me as well
It is she who encouraged me to write what I felt
That little girl how tactfully my loneliness she dealt
No more brooding I once more tell you
Waiting to enjoy with my grand child or two.
